CITY IN BRIEF.

Mayor McMaster is at work again in his court.

A new building and loan association, known as No. 50, has been organized.

Louis Krause, charged with the theft of a quantity of carpet, has gone to the Grand Jury.

The burning of some brush on East street yesterday afternoon caused the sending in of a fire alarm.

There will be a meeting of the Nightingale Association to-morrow afternoon, at 224 North New Jersey street.

George Butch has been sent to jail again for annoying his wife, from whom he is separated. Thirty days this time.

Early yesterday morning the police descended on a poker game in a West Washington street livery stable, capturing Randolph Page Martin, George Poland and William Rozier. The Mayor has taken the case under advisement.

A gentleman from Huntington, now in the city, stated last night that the foundry of Cook & Simonton, at Huntington, valued at $3,000, was burned Monday night. Insured for $2,000. The same night the barn of Samuel Fulton, a farmer, four miles southwest of Huntington, was burned. Six horses, twelve head of cattle, several hundred bushels of grain, and some farming implements were also destroyed; loss $1,000. incendiary.

AMUSEMENTS.

ENGLISH'S OPERA HOUSE.

"The Little Duke" was given last night to the largest and most appreciative audience ever seen in English's Opera House, which was crowded to the doors and standing room at a premium. Miss Kirwin sustained the role of "The Little Duke," and owing to a heavy cold was unable to do justice to herself. Mr. Chapman, in the comedy role of "The Tutor," created laughter, and Mr. Brand deserves special mention. The chorus was hardly equal to the occasion. To-night the popular "Giroda-Giroda" will be given, and "The Little Duke" will be repeated at matinee. The low scale of prices will no doubt bring a large audience in the house, and those wishing good seats should go early and secure them. "The Crimes of London," a new spectacular and mechanical melodrama, will occupy English's the remainder of the week, commencing Thursday evening. The piece has been mentioned favorably by the exchanges, having its initial production at the National Theater, Philadelphia, last August. The author, Mr. Charles De Kree, will be here to personally superintend the production. The play must not be confounded as a blood and thunder drama, but a love story, told realistically, abounding in dramatic incidents and thrilling situations. A full brass band is carried by this organization, and will, in addition to appearing in the tablanau, give a street parade. Prices will be reduced to 10, 25, 35 and 50 cents, only during this engagement.

"A HOOF OF GOLD" AT THE GRAND.
This beautiful melodrama was again presented at the Grand Opera House last night before a well-pleased audience. It is a highly dramatic play, and startling situations follow each other so close that the audience have not time to weep with the heroine before they are called upon to laugh at the low comedian. The incidents are original, at the same time natural; the plot consistent; the scenery beautiful and appropriate, and the company an evenly balanced and capable one. There will be a ladies' and children's matinee to-day at 2 o'clock, when the prices will be only 25 and 50 cents. Last performance to-night.

To-morrow night, at the Grand, we will have the first presentation in this city of the Madison Square Theater's greatest success, "May Blossom," said to be the second "Hazel Kirke." The company which is to furnish it interpretation is a sterling one, and embraces, among others, Miss Georgia Cayvan, Joseph Whelock, Benjamin Maginley, Forest Robinson and W. H. Crampson. Speaking of one of the first performances the New York Herald says: "May Blossom" is a most decided success. Its story has a strong human interest, is well told, and has many sympathetic touches of strong sentiment and a current of comedy which brightens the whole, and is always in good taste and to the point. There are some charming scenes with children, including the burial of little "May Blossom" robin, which is a popular feature of the representation. The scenery is magnificent, and the mechanical effects entirely new and cleverly worked.

PERSONAL MENTION.

National Bank Examiner E. M. Gellman, of Louisville, was in the city yesterday.

Hon. John W. Kern was sworn in as Supreme Court Reporter yesterday by Judge Taylor.

L. G. Patterson, of Logansport; L. C. Pearce, Columbus; H. M. Russell, Chicago; J. E. Dow, Columbus, and Willis and Maurice Fryer, Harrison, Ind., are registered at the Denison.

Mrs. Emily T. Charles and daughter Myla are at present visiting at Chicago. They are expected in this city in a short time, and will be guests of Mrs. Charles' uncle, J. T. Parker, 332 North West street, where they will be pleased to see their friends.

John W. Kern moved his family to Indianapolis Tuesday, where he will shortly take charge of the office of Reporter of the Supreme Court. Aside from being a Democrat, John is a very clever gentleman, and will be missed by a host of friends in Kokomo and Howard County in all political parties.—Kokomo Tribune Gazette.

Mrs. Livermore at Plymouth Church.

With Wendell Phillips as the theme and Mary A. Livermore as the orator, a rare intellectual treat may be expected at Plymouth Church this evening. This, her latest lecture, is pronounced the crowning effort of Mrs. Livermore's platform labors. As the friend and co-worker with Wendell Phillips during his last years, as one who shared with him the glory of the occasion of his last appearance in public—the traveling of the statue of Harriet Martineau—Mrs. Livermore can speak understandingly and appreciatively of one of the grandest characters of the nineteenth century. Mrs. Livermore has numerous warm friends, as well as admirers, in this city, and she will doubtless be greeted by a large audience. The admission is 50 cents, without extra charge for reserved seats.

Arrested for Larceny.

Upon request of the agent of the Union News Company Sergeants Sowers and Quigley arrested George Scott, alias Johnson, alias Fleishman, last night at the depot for larceny. The agent said he had received a telegram from the office at Atlanta, Ga., requesting that Scott be arrested for the theft of $20 worth of goods and a suit of clothes Scott passed through the depot last night for the first time and was at once recognized by the description sent. He had part of the goods with him at the time of his arrest, and he claimed they were given him by the agent at Cincinnati as a supply on the road to this city. He was taken to the police station and locked up.

Through From Cleveland.

When the Bee Line train from Cleveland reached Brightwood last night at 10:30 o'clock, the Car Inspector discovered a stranger about twenty-one years of age lying on the trucks of one of the cars, so nearly frozen that he could hardly speak much less walk. He had climbed under the car near Cleveland, and after the first few miles had been passed became so numb that he was not able to get out, so that there was nothing to do but continue the trip and trust to luck. He was thawed out in the depot.

THE COURT HOUSE BASEMENT

Converted into a Den of Thieves, Tramps and Vagrants.

About a year ago the Board of Aldermen passed a resolution requiring an officer to clear the corridors of the Court-house of vagrants, tramps and thieves who were in the habit of congregating there. This was done because one old tramp had been found with the smallpox who had loafed in the corridors until he became well. The affair created considerable excitement at the time, and for awhile the order was enforced, and everybody satisfied and happy, except the vagrants.

Monday night the new Board of Health petitioned the Aldermanic Board for an order to have an officer clear the basement from time to time. The reasons were that there are a number of thieves and tramps who loaf there and commit nuisance. Complaint has been made by a number of the officers in the Court-house of the condition of the basement corridors. The janitor testifies to the truth of the statements; men and women comment upon the foul odors and bad atmosphere, and it looked as though the Health Board was responsible for the sanitary condition of the place. The Deputy City Attorney admits the truth of the matter, and thinks the petition should have been granted. It is urged that a large number of vagrants are in the habit of staying there during the day, going out occasionally with old oyster cans around the saloons and emptying the beer from the discarded beer kegs, which they take back to the corridors to drink. Four thieves were found who made their headquarters here, and their plan of operations was to have one man commit a theft—usually gloves—which were brought into the building, and afterward disposed of at second-hand stores by the gang. These four rascals were eventually convicted, but while their capture was the result of their loafing around the Court-house, it is a travesty on justice that such scoundrels should be tolerated, and that the officials are so lax in their business that they should feel most secure from punishment when they sheltered their worthless carcasses in the temple of justice. Also as a protection against disease, the Court-house should be swept of such characters. The members of the board, however, were opposed to the proposed cleansing of the corridors, some of them urging that there were many poor but honest men, out of work but who will work if they can find anything to do, who come there to get warm. The excuse is frivolous. The Health Officer does not desire to drive such men out and it would not be done, as any officer knows who are the honest poor men and who are the lazy, thieving and filthy vagrants. The idea of the health officer was to get rid of the fifth, which, as a matter of course, would also take out the thieves, tramps and vagrants. The industrious, poor and honest, though unfortunate, men are never mistaken in the assortment by officers in such work, and they would be unmolested.

No formal dividend was declared, but it was the general understanding that a dividend would be made within sixty days. The stockholders were nearly all represented and very nearly unanimous in favor of reducing the capital stock from $800 to $500 shares. The reduced capital stock will be applied, as far as it may be needed, in charging off bad debts.

It Was All Right

The other day the wife of Harry Whitman filed against him for failure to provide, but on Monday morning he called on her at the residence of one of her relatives, and the two arranged matters in an amicable manner. Mr. Whitman taking his wife out buggy riding. The case was called up in the court, but the couple did not make their appearance, and a report was soon in circulation that they had done so. It was bodily harm. Colbert and Sergeant Quigley started out in search of Whitman and soon found him. He at once produced his wife, and the couple set at rest the minds of relatives and friends by informing them that they determined to live together again.
